

Useful Websites For New Members

New members have so much information directed at them during their first few weeks on the job that it is easy to feel overwhelmed. New members may find the list of the websites below useful to visit when they have the time to obtain information on a variety of topics.

The websites listed were all working and up to date as of September 1, 2009.

The OSSTF/FEESO provincial website is undergoing some changes and members will find that once the changes are complete, information will be easier to search and access. The renewed website will go live later this fall, but the current website remains a good source of information on a variety of topics.
